Stephen G. Bitch, Jayne E. Fleming, and Marshall C. Wallace have revised this definitive work on trial objections by the late renowned trial lawyer Edwin A. Heafey, Jr. Use this resource to prepare for trial; take and oppose depositions; deal with administrative or other evidentiary hearings; and even handle summary judgment motions.

THE 2008 EDITION INCLUDES:

- Discussion of recent Crawford developments including Danforth v Minnesota (US S Ct) and People v Cage (Cal S Ct)
- Coverage of the California Supreme Court's decision in Rico v Mitsubishi Motors Corp. on receipt of privileged documents through inadvertence

FEATURES:

- References to CALCRIM Jury Instructions
- Concise descriptions of objections and privileges, with legal underpinnings explained
- Valuable advice about motions in limine, voir dire, direct examination, confidentiality, and privileges
- Suggested language for framing the objection or claim of privilege
- Alternatives to objections
- Practice tips and strategic advice
- A laminated Checklist of Objections for your trial notebook

Manage a trial in the most effective way for your client whether you are representing the plaintiff or the defendant. This book describes the legal rules governing procedure during trial and provides guidance about performing within the framework of these rules. This crucial resource is packed with invaluable suggestions for every step of trial and will aid in the construction of a tight, well-orchestrated presentation. Includes the latest in trial preparation and strategy as well as the most recent case and statutory developments.

Persuasive Opening Statements and Closing Arguments

Print: $112, CP39650, 343 pages, small format, hardcover, updated 10/03

Joseph W. Cotchett and Frank Rothman show you how to plan, develop, and present winning opening statements and closing arguments. The text includes actual remarks from nationally famous trial lawyers as well as the authors' own presentations. General rules to follow are laid out and illustrated, strategies are recommended, and components of statements that make or break a case are analyzed. Actual sample transcripts are included.

Effective Direct and Cross-Examination

One of the most widely quoted legal texts of the last 25 years. Authored by the late California Appellate Justice Bernard S. Jefferson (1910-2002) and, in recent years, expanded by an editorial board comprised of 14 of the state's top lawyers, judges, and law professors, this book established the standards of clarity and precision in the interpretation of evidence issues in California today. This guide to the best way to research evidence issues before going to a hearing, deposition, or trial has been cited in more than 260 published appellate opinions. It has answered not only the question, "What is the law?" but also the query, "Why is this the law?" for generations of attorneys.
